GET RICH
That is a piece of advice very much like the doctor's, when he advised the poor man to take a sea voyage; or the poor woman to take good nourishing food and a glass of port wine. We don't need to be told to get rich but we do need to be told how to do it.
There are many ways to get money. Speculation is one way. You can buy stocks, bonds, shares, etc., but all this requires capital to start with, and you have none, we will suppose. Then you must begin saving money, but this only shifts the shoe that pinches to the other foot. How to save money is nearly as great a problem as how to get rich. It is very well to say, "save money." That is what we started out to tell you and everybody, how money saved on your necessary expenses may lay the foundation for fortune for you; and you can save money every time you trade by buying cheap.
That's no news, you will probably say. Of course you can save by buying cheap. You could also fly if you had wings. You can do anything if you know how. You are quite willing to save on your buying if you know where to go.—That's what we are getting at. We would not waste your time by offering all this advice without having a practical end in view. If you want to buy goods at prices which will save you much money don't fail to visit the large drug and book house of Saur & Balsley. You can not only save big money on the necessary medicines which your family need at this especial season of the year, but also on wall and window papers, paints, oils, varnishes and brushes. While the season is drawing near when it becomes necessary to lay in a new stock of these goods, our stock on hand is composed of the very latest patterns and best goods in the market, but will be sold at a great sacrifice in order to make room for our spring stock. Our book trade was never more flourishing, now that books are so cheap, and those in need of good reading material for the home should not fail to look over Saur & Balsley's display of all manner of books and periodicals.
A call on Saur & Balsley will never come amiss. It is money in your pocket every time.—Now is the time to lay in your supply of Wall Paper and Paints.

Brice Chosen Senator.
In the Democratic caucus at Columbus Thursday evening last Hon. C. S. Brice had an easy race for Senator, being chosen on the 2d ballot with 13 more than a necessary majority. The second ballot stood:
Senate—Adams, Seney, Ashburn, Brice, Brady, McMahon, Brown, Brice, Buchanan, Brice, Cooreson, Brice, Gaumer, Brice, Howell, Brice, Lowry, Brice, Marshall, Mc-Mahon, Robertson, McMahon, Ryan, Brice, Sonenart, Brice, Sutton, Brice, Stephens, Brice, VanCleaf, McMahon, Wallace, Mc-Mahon, Zimmerman, Brice.
House—Bayhan, Thomas, Beard, Brice, Bayliffe, McMahon, Bontier, Brice, Brice, Blue, Brice, Boesel, Brice, Brant, Seney, Brown, blank, Carroll, Brice, Christy, Brice, Counts, blank, Critchfield, Brice, Cromley, McMahon, Cunningham, Brice, Day, Brice, Dewald, Brice, Dill, Brice, Don-wor, McMahon, Dressbach, Brice, Eggerman, Brice, Forbes, Baker, Garber, Brice, Gaumer, Brice, Gear, Brice, Gilliland, Brice, Goldrick, Brice, Hagerty, Thomas, Hunt, Brice, Jeffre, Brice, Lamping, Brice, Mc-Clary, Brice, McDermott, McMahon, McKee, McMahon, McMahon, Brice, Schuler, McMahon, McMahon, Brice, Schulte, Brice, Smith, blank, Troyer, Brice, Troendly, Brice, Wagner, Brice, Weiser, Brice, Yoho, Brice, Speaker, Othwaite.
Mr. Brice being notified of his election appeared before the caucus and addressed it as follows:
MR. CHAIRMAN AND GENTLEMEN: I tender my profound thanks for the great honor you have done me this night. I assure you that no man living can appreciate it more thoroughly than I, and my acknowledgements to you and the party you represent are fervent and sincere. I only tremble lest I am unworthy the high trust you propose giving me. I can only be discharged if I am in touch with the great body of true Democrats, good men whose favor I ask, and will try to merit.
With whatever of mental and physical strength I am endowed, I give my mind and heart to your service, and my intentions at least shall merit your esteem.
Born and reared among you, engaged from my youth up in the same affairs, sharing the same tasks, hoping and struggling and working with you, we are at heart in sympathy, and I can appeal to you as my friends and neighbors for counsel and support.
I am a Democrat like that of our neighbors in northwestern Ohio is comprised in an ardent desire for as great liberty of thought and speech and action as is consistent with giving every other in the commonwealth the same liberty and that no more legislation is necessary than is requisite to give us this liberty.
By this every public question is to be tried, and whether the issue be a temporary or a protracted one there is no difficulty in deciding on the position the party occupies.
It is on this principle that we base our struggle for tariff reform, and we know by it that we must win and that speedily and thoroughly.
My lifelong association, my action when counsel required, are the best indication to you of my future course. With harmony in our council, with prudence in our legislation, with thoroughness in our organization, with the best man in the State in earnest, active effort, we can win Congress in 1893, a government and senator in 1894 and put Ohio Democracy well to the front in the great contest of '92. Gentlemen, I again thank you heartily and sincerely and bid you good night. (Loud and continued applause.)
It now seems likely that Wyoming, Idaho and possibly New Mexico will be admitted to statehood at this session of Congress.
A bill introduced by Congressman William McAdoo, of New Jersey, provides for the construction of a bridge seven miles long, reaching from the Hackensack river over the houses of Jersey City, thence across the Hudson to New York. It will be a suspension bridge, accommodating at least six lines of railroad tracks, as well as horse and foot passengers. The gigantic structure is to have double as many cables as the Brooklyn bridge, and each of them will be four times as large as those of the great work which spans the East river.
Charles Foster scattered boodle in nearly every county in the State last fall, as he is in the habit of doing every year. While he was doing this the Republican organs kept up a deafening clatter about the "coal oil Democracy" in order to try to divert attention from Foster, who is in partnership with the Standard oil company, a big Republican boodle concern. Foster had his eye on a seat in the United States Senate and paid for it in advance. Halstead charged him with it and Foster pleaded guilty. To hide this fact as much as possible the Republicans have shrieked themselves hoarse calling Mr. Brice a boodler. They sought diligently for something they could twist into seeming evidence of his use of money but found nothing. Not only that, they were forced to reluctantly admit that his canvass was clean, not even dampened by the whisky which always souks a Republican canvass. Nevertheless they still shout "Boodler boodler!" and when they go down in the stream of defeat their last act will be to stubbornly hold above their sinking heads one of Foster's blue barrel symbols.—Plain Dealer.
This is the double leaded opinion of Mr. Brice entertained by the New York Star, a steadfast, uncompromising Democratic newspaper, the best in New York city.
In nominating Calvin S. Brice for United States senator the Democrats of the Ohio legislature have made the best possible use of the power gained by their great victory at the late election. The promptness with which the nomination was made, after a wide scattering of the complimentary votes for other prominent and worthy men in the preliminary balloting, shows how resolute are the Democrats of the Buckeye State in the determination to hold the place they have taken in the Democratic column, and to repudiate the machinations of open foes and secret traitors who misrepresent their motives and malign those whom they honor. In the senate Mr. Brice will be, as he has proved himself in other posts of great responsibility, vigilant, unswerving, able and resourceful—a credit to his State and to the country, as well as to the political organization over whose highest council he presides.

UNITED STATES SENATOR, CALVIN S. BRICE.

Governor Campbell Inaugurated.
The inaugural ceremonies at Columbus on Monday were witnessed by thousands, and was attended more largely than the inauguration of any other Governor since the days of William Allen. The crowd was so great that it was impossible to accommodate it indoors. The parade was imposing beyond description, and taking the day all in all it is doubtful whether Columbus ever witnessed a more magnificent inaugural than that of Gov. Campbell.
The oath of office was administered about noon, and Mr. Campbell's address after was all that any citizen of Ohio could wish, be he Democrat or Republican. His message to the general assembly is given in this issue of the NARRATOR, and we know it will be highly relied by at least our Democratic readers, for all Democrats are proud of their Governor.
A destructive storm passed over St. Louis Sunday night, doing considerable damage to property and destroying the lives of quite a number of citizens. It came in the usual tunnel-shaped cloud, demolishing everything in its course.
The Republicans have been making so much ado about the Democrats selecting a rich man for Senator, that they almost tore their shirts in the scramble to find a poor man to vote for—and they found him in the person of Charles Foster! He's only a thrice told millionaire, but may be poor otherwise, in the estimation of his Republican brothers. Poor, bah!
Gov. Campbell in his message favors home rule, and therefore recommends the repeal of the law which gives the Governor the power to appoint boards to rule over our cities. He wants the people to select their own rulers. He also favors non-partisan election boards, but disapproves taking the right away from these boards of selecting their own clerks. The Governor has much to say concerning ballot reform, and favors the "Australian System," so regulated as to conform to our State government and the interests of all citizens. His suggestions in this respect are all timely and will demand much attention from all classes. He thinks the office of commissioner of railroads and telegraphs has been more ornamental than useful, and says unless the office is made one of more efficiency and power it might as well be abolished. Other suggestions are offered upon important subjects, in fact the message is full meat, and will truly bear a careful reading by all citizens. It is the most statesmanlike paper that has emanated from a Governor of Ohio for many years.
MAKING ELECTRICITY SAFE.
A Wonderful Invention if the Claims Made Be True.
ERIE, Pa., January 9.—Electricians in this section of the State were invited by Superintendent Jacob Petch, of the Erie Motor Car Company, to witness a test of personal insulation yesterday. Petch, alarmed at the fatalities in New York and elsewhere, studied day and night to arrest the danger lying in the overcharged wire. He fortified himself and taking hold of the buzz rod of the dynamo in his bare hands, which he had dipped in water, he then stepped upon a pile of wet dirt and received the full charge, over 500 volts, the force used to operate about ten miles of road. To the surprise of everyone the electricity felt no effects whatever. The invention is a secret to himself and upon which he will apply for a patent at once. The insulation enables linemen and others to handle any wire with safety and is an absolute protection.
For charity Ohio stands without a peer among the States of the Union. Not the least important item in her work of benevolence is the establishment of Children's Homes. Already there are in Ohio, thirty-five Children's Homes valued at $1,043,823. They have accommodations for 7,847 children, and during the past year 2,675 children were admitted. The total number cared for since the establishment of the homes is 9,907.—Ex.

The Demon Who Turns to the Left.
(Chicago Herald.)
There are all kinds of people abroad in the street, Of every condition and class; Some jestful and crowd us whenever we meet, And others go peacefully past. But there's one we encounter whenever we stray Of whom we'd be gladly bereft, Oh, why doesn't Providence call him away? The demon who turns to the left.
He seems to take pleasure in dodging about— To him it is the highest delight, To all your soul with a horrible doubt, If he'll turn to the left or the right. In a manner that baffles your reason complete— With a movement both subtle and swift He'll manage to knock you clear off your feet— The demon who turns to the left.
There's the woman we all of us frequently meet, Whose parasol is aimed at our eyes; And the chump who persistently tramp on our feet. They're all pretty hard to get by. But there's no other fiend running around Who so easily of sense is bereft. No other transgressor has ever been found Like the demon who turns to the left.

COMPLETE CONFESSION.
Of the Twelve-year-old Boy Who Murdered His Father and Step-mother.
ELK ADER, IOWA, January 13.—Wesley Elkins, the 12-year-old boy who a week ago murdered his father and step-mother in Elk township, this county, and made a complete confession of the crime, pleaded guilty before the District Court, now in session here, to murder in the first degree, and was yesterday sentenced by Judge Hoyt to imprisonment for life at hard labor. Young Elkins manifested no feeling when the sentence was pronounced. He is undoubtedly the youngest life criminal ever sentenced in this state. The Judge has ordered that the confession shall not be given to the public, owing to its sensational character.
At Alton, Ill., white children drove the blacks from the schools. The school board has since abolished all colored schools and declared in favor of mixed ones, and war is on.

California Raisins.
California is beginning to outstrip Spain in the production of raisins. Consul Marston, of Malaga, indeed, makes the significant statement that the Spanish vine-dressers who have suffered of late years from the phylloxera have re-planted vines that have been destroyed by American stock. In 1882 the crop of raisins produced in Malaga reached 1,900,000 boxes, of which there were shipped to the United States nearly 1,000,000 boxes. Since that time shipments to the United States have been gradually but steadily decreasing. In 1888, when the total production amounted to about 700,000 boxes, only 112,000 were exported to this country. Mr. Marston adds that many Spaniards predict that the vintage of 1889 will reduce still further the purchases made for exportation to the United States, and that in a few years Malaga raisins will be re-placed even for consumption in Spain by those produced in California.—Bradstreet's.

New Wrinkle in Fancy Furniture.
In a Market street furniture store is exhibited a parlor suit that is said to be unique, with one exception, in this country. It is upholstered with palm leaf fans, a single fan forming the seat and another the back of the chair. The framework is of gilded bent wood. Two fans make a pretty substitute for the cushioned bottom of a tete-a-tete, and even the table top is of fans. It was made to order for a West Philadelphia residence, and the only other suite like it is in New York. Both were modeled after designs shown at the Paris exposition.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

From Ocean to Ocean.
Over thirty-two year ago, Mr. Alfred Speer, of Passaic, imported from the banks of the Douro, in Portugal, a few of the Port Grape vines, and commenced careful experiments for the purpose of producing a first-class American Port, both fermented and unfermented. He has been eminently successful, and now Speer's wine and unfermented juice is known from ocean to ocean, and endorsed by the best medical talent in the world as the best now produced for the use of invalids. For sale by druggists.
